Profile of a killer: He sees women as garbage

By Stephen Cook

SANTA ROSA — He interviews for his victims, selecting them carefully according to established criteria.

He apparently is sophisticated enough to approach without frightening them.

He kills to cleanse the world of women he considers as "garbage to be dumped along the side of the road and not even receive a decent burial."

This is the killer Sonoma County Sheriff Don Stroup believes has slain seven girls and young women near Santa Rosa and more than 20 others elsewhere in California and other Western states.

The prosecution asks the psychological makeup of the killer—Zodiac—be leaves be the Zodi- (70) 827-2511, or by writing an unsolicited letter to Secret Service, P.O. Box 369, Santa Rosa, CA.
