Round-up

Weapons test promised

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union announced Wednesday it will consider itself free to deploy anti-satellite systems in space if the United States goes ahead with its planned test of an anti-satellite weapon.

The Soviet leader Yuri V. Andropov announced two years ago that the Kremlin was adopting a unilateral moratorium on the testing and deployment of anti-satellite weapons.

Andropov had said the test would remain in force as long as other powers including the United States refrained from similar testing and deployment.

New indictment sought

ANCHORAGE — The state will attempt to convince another grand jury to indict John Kenneth Felt in the 1967 slaying of eight people aboard the fishing vessel Invester. Chief Prosecutor Dan Hickey said Tuesday.

The decision to seek a re-indictment was made late Tuesday, after Hickey and state prosecutors conferred with Attorney General Bill Brown's Justice Department. Hickey said prosecutors decided not to appeal Judge Superior Court Judge Thomas Schulz's ruling that a 1984 indictment naming Felt was flawed. Schulz threw out the indictment last week.

Felt, 52, is accused of killing Mark and Brian Oudshoorn, both 28, their two young children and four teenage crew members as the vessel was docked in Craig. He also is accused of burning the vessel later to hide the crime.

Gas forces evacuation

CANTON, Ohio — An acid vapor cloud escaped from a tank outside a galvanizing plant today, prompting the evacuation of people within a mile of the facility and the closing of four schools, authorities said.

The leak occurred about three miles from downtown just outside the city limits, and authorities said the cloud appeared to be moving very slowly toward downtown.

The leak was reported at 6:40 a.m., and a Canton Township fire dispatcher who asked not to be identified.

Canton police Officer Joseph Schlegel said the chemical was hydrofluoric acid and came from the Gregory Chlorinating Inc. plant, but plant officials identified it as hydrofluoric acid.

Contact with either substance could cause irritation to skin or eyes, and breathing either can cause irritation to throat or lungs, said Alice Franko, a spokesman for the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

Car bomb kills four

BEHET, Lebanon — A car bomb exploded today in the marketplace of a Christian town in the Syrian-controlled Bekaa valley, and a Christian radio station reported at least four people killed and 40 others wounded.

A police spokesman in the town of Zahl confirmed by telephone that a car bomb had exploded this afternoon, but said he had no casualty count.

2000, whose 100,000 inhabitants are predominantly Greek Catholic, was visited sporadically by Muslim militias for several weeks until the Syrians arrested the withdrawal of the local Christian militia, the Lebanese Forces, last week.

The town, on the edge of the Bekaa, is the only Christian enclave in the predominantly Muslim area, reported four dead in the blast.

German spy confesses

BORN, West Germany — Margaret Blöck, a secretary in the office of the West German president who was arrested Aug. 21 at a suspected East German agent, has confessed to spying, Deutsche Presse-Agentur, the German press agency, announced Wednesday.

The 49-year-old secretary, who worked 12 years for successive West German presidents, confessed to working for a "secret organization," but refused to disclose. Informal sources told DPA that they now assume that Blöck, who had previously denied charges of espionage, was an agent for East Germany.
